- Ensure financial viability of strategic projects
- Take on responsibility you never imagined
- Jumpstart your career alongside the best and brightest
- Become a part of the FBL family

Why join the FBL team?

Feedback Labs is a mission-driven organization committed to making real change in the world. Our team is dynamic and growing. We work smart, we work hard, and we have fun.

As an FBL intern, you will work closely with each member of the team, be trusted with great responsibility, push the Labs forward, and be supported to take the next big step in your career. Past interns have helped create new products, transformed our marketing and communication strategies, and written featured blog articles.

Joining FBL is a chance to work with a fun and exciting team, shape a new organization, and learn from some of the most creative types in the sector. Feedback Labs offers other benefits to all interns, including but not limited to a gym membership, yoga classes, professional development lectures, and a minor transportation stipend. We are also happy to work with selected candidates to apply for academic credit where permitted by hosting institutions.

Compensation:

Feedback Labs provides support for interns transportation and housing, however, many of our interns secure funding from their institutions, and we encourage you to find such opportunities. Once offered a position, we are happy to discuss how we can support the process of securing funding from your institution.
